Re: Complaint of Central Intelligence Agency Against American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., Filed at the Federal Communications Commission on November 23, 1984

Dear Chairman Fowler:

As counsel for the Radio-Television News Directors Association (RTNDA), we are forwarding to you a resolution adopted unanimously by the members at the organization's Annual Conference on December 6, 1984. The resolution opposes the above-referenced Complaint of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which alleges deliberate news distortion and violation of the FCC's personal attack rule and fairness doctrine by ABC News. In its resolution RTNDA urges the FCC to dismiss the complaint without reaching its merits.

The several kinds of fairness regulation invoked by the CIA were never intended to be used by a government agency to protect itself from criticism. The fairness doctrine obligates broadcasters to cover controversial issues of public importance and to present significant points of view on the issues. Both of these objectives are seriously thwarted by the CIA's action, which appears to be an attempt to inhibit free and robust reporting of criticism of the CIA.

Such government-inspired inhibition of criticism of government is antithetical to the First Amendment, recalling the infamous and discarded concept of seditious libel. The courts have held that the government cannot bring defamation actions against the media. Moreover, government agencies have greater access to the media to have their views disseminated than do other institutions. In this instance, the CIA could have its views presented to the public without resorting to the filing of an official and threatening complaint.

As a matter of policy if not law reflecting these principles, and in order to avoid a chilling effect even more likely than that which the FCC posited in its recent Notice of Inquiry on the fairness doctrine, the Commission should decline to act as the instrument of any other agency of government in calling the electronic press to account for its reporting or criticism of the government. Therefore, RTNDA urges the FCC to dismiss the CIA complaint without delay.

Also, RTNDA offers the CIA complaint as a further example of the danger which inheres in government regulation of fairness, and asks again that such regulation of electronic journalism be ended by legislation or rulemaking.

Identical letters and copies of the resolution are being sent to FCC Commissioners and staff and to members and staff of the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation and the House of Representatives Subcommittee on Telecommunications, Consumer Protection and Finance.

Very truly yours,

PIERSON, BALL & DOWD

Everett H. Erlick, Vice President and General Counsel, American

RESOLUTION OF THE MEMBERS OF THE
RADIO-TELEVISION NEWS DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION
CONCERNING A COMPLAINT OF THE
CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

Whereas, the Central Intelligence Agency has filed with the FCC a formal complaint against American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., alleging deliberate news distortion and violation of the FCC's personal attack rule and fairness doctrine by ABC News; and

Whereas, the CIA's complaint appears to be the first of its kind filed by an agency of the United States government, of which the FCC is a part; and

Whereas, this action by the CIA, reportedly taken with the approval of the White House and the Department of Justice, appears to have been intended to inhibit free and robust criticism of our government - criticism intended by the First Amendment to the Constitution and by Section 326 of the Communications Act; and

Whereas, the government of the United States has ample access to and coverage by the news media to make its positions known without resort to efforts to intimidate the press through threats of non-renewal of broadcast station licenses and other penalties;

Wherefore, the members of the Radio-Television News Directors Association, assembled at San Antonio, Texas for their Annual Conference, do hereby express this Association's firm opposition to this action by the CIA and urge the FCC to dismiss the CIA's complaint without considering its substance; and Further, that the members of RTNDA recognize and so inform the FCC and the appropriate committees of Congress that the CIA's complaint is another example of the danger of government regulation of fairness in news reporting and another reason why the fairness doctrine and other content regulation unique to electronic journalism should be abolished.
